

ABSTRACT OF THE DISCLOSURE

An infant tub with removable seat for allowing the user to not 5 have to hold onto the infant while bathing the infant. The infant tub with removable seat includes a bathtub member having side, foot, back, and bottom walls, and also having an open top, and also having an elongate support member being disposed at the open top and interconnecting the side walls for supporting play things 10 thereupon; and also includes a cushioned seat member being removably fastened against the back wall in the bathtub member; and further includes a securement member for fastening about a child being seated in the cushioned seat member in the bathtub member.